

Eco Outreach International's Mission:

To promote a great awareness on how humans have negatively impacted the world's most fragile ecosystems and to provide our clients with the education desperately needed to restore and conserve these rich habitats. We are dedicated to providing students and adults with the highest quality ecological experience.

Eco Outreach International's Vision:

Our goal is to open as many minds as possible that there is great need for preservation and conservation efforts globally. By experiencing these habitats firsthand, we hope that our clients will see the value for making necessary change for the environment and become our "leaders for a greener tomorrow."

Eco Outreach International's Rationale:

Global expansion and the evolution of new technologies, have seemingly improved the quality of human life however these advancements come at a huge expense to the vast array of other species which inhabit Earth. Ecosystems around the world have become shockingly degraded and evidence reveals that we are several years ahead of ourselves with the negative impact we have caused around our globe and the current rate of species extinction is said to be 1,000 times the expected natural rate. We are in a critical moment in time where if we don't make significant change, our most fragile habitats will be lost forever. Biodiversity is the foundation of all life on Earth and it is therefore our moral duty to protect it! A global conservation plan is needed in this uphill battle which includes not only legislation but more importantly, global education.
